"Can Such Things Be?"

The secession [illegible] is very tender of the interests of the [illegible] complaint against [illegible] ways [illegible] means [illegible] tion. We [illegible] be found [illegible] mark upon [illegible] presented, [illegible] ment. [illegible] such presses [illegible] against our govern[illegible]? It seems to us the inference from the [illegible] is that they are, as far as they dare [illegible] in full communion with the rebels who have made war upon the [illegible] tion to b[illegible]

They are many [illegible] upon this point. The G[illegible] in a volunteer address [illegible] the interests of rebels [illegible] had a right to secede from the Union, and that government had no power to send troops into such States for the suppression of rebellion. These were the very doctrines of the rebels, by the enforcement of which they expected to break up this government. Has the secession press ever condemned Gov. Whiteaker for his incendiary address? No—they have approved of it.

We have had repeated instances of officers in the army and in civil life securing all the means put into their hands for governmental service, fleeing from the country, and uniting with the rebels, in their war upon the government. Has a note of [illegible] tion from the secession press ever been heard of these acts by men who had been educated at the expense of the country, and who had been supported by means drawn from the government treasury, and who were sworn to bear true faith and allegiance to the United States? There has not been a [illegible] plaint from the secession press.

We hear that with the consent of General Lane [illegible] with the [illegible] rebels, which was making war upon the government—a young man who was educated at the cost of the nation—[illegible] to the government all the means [illegible] on earth—[illegible] silent as death upon the matter.

The negroes received the troops kindly. They could scarcely do too much for them.

made war upon the Union, with a determination to break it up.

They are many facts which have a bearing upon this point. The Governor of the State, in a volunteer address calculated to advance the interests of rebellion, declared that States had a right to secede from the Union, and that government had no power to send troops into such States for the suppression of rebellion. These were the very doctrines of the rebels, by the enforcement of which they expected to break up this government. Has the secession press ever condemned Gov. Whiteaker for his incendiary address? No—they have approved of it.

We have had repeated instances of officers in the army and in civil life, securing all the means put into their hands for governmental service, fleeing from the country, and uniting with the rebels, in their war upon the government. Has a note of disapprobation from the secession press ever been heard of these acts by men who had been educated at the expense of the country, and who had been supported by means drawn from the government treasury, and who were sworn to bear true faith and allegiance to the United States? There has not been a word of complaint from the secession press.

We hear that with the consent of General Lane, his son united with the army of the rebels, which was making war upon the government,—a young man who was educated at the cost of the nation,—whose father owes to the government all the means he possesses on earth;—and the secession papers are as silent as death upon the matter.

We now hear that the son of Gen. Adair, who was also educated at public expense, has left the army without leave, and made his way to Victoria, in a position to fight our national government and the State of his adoption—and we hear of no dissent from the secession press of Oregon.

In the interior of our State, in a part of the country known to be under rebel influence, a traitor flag was kept flying for weeks—government arms known to be in the hands of secessionists—and recently there has been discovered in the hands of a secessionist a large amount of U. S. ball cartridges—and the secession press passes by all these facts without notice or complaint.

The death of Senator Baker placed in the hands of Gov. Whiteaker the power of appointing a Senator to fill his place in Congress, and that place was filled by an open and declared secessionist—a man who avowed that we had no government—that the Southern Confederacy was his government, that he desired to sell his property here and join the rebels,—and the secession press loudly and boisterously approved of his appointment.

In the exercise of a most unquestioned national right, an American naval officer seized two men sent as agents of the rebels in the South, to sell out the people of the rebel States to some European nation, and receive from them a monarchical government [illegible] the right of seizure sanctioned by antecedents of the leading governments of Europe, and by their writers on the laws of nations, and secession [illegible] government [illegible] success of a party claiming to be democrats, but who are at heart traitors and rebels, in Oregon?

Affairs in and about Port Royal up to November 25th—Expedition to St. Helena Island.

On the 13th, the 79th New York Highlanders were ordered to take possession of St. Helena Island. At four o'clock they had arrived at their position, worn down with fatigue and hunger; but they soon sat down to a repast of turkey, chicken, sweet potatoes, &c., which the negroes brought by the cart-load. The negroes received the troops kindly. They could scarcely do too much for them.

Dr. Jenkins owned the plantation where the troops landed. He had a handsome house, well furnished, and a tasteful garden. The officers visited five or six plantations, all deserted except by negroes. The negroes said that all the whites had gone except fourteen or fifteen, who lay in the woods by day and robbed by night. They said that the whites came on to the Island by night to shoot and steal negroes. Capt. Falconer, with some pickets, was directed, if possible, to capture these fellows. He sent a portion of his force round on the beach to destroy their boats, while, with the remainder, he passed through the woods. The party arrived on the beach, where they espied a robber about three hundred yards off, in a boat, trying to make his escape. They immediately levelled their muskets and ordered him to land, which he did. He proved to be Benjamin Chaplain, a resident of St. Helena Island. He is a captain of a mounted rifle company, and a terror to all the negroes on the island.

When Capt. Falconer brought him in the negroes laughed and danced, and flocked around Capt. Falconer, embracing his legs, kissing his hands, and seemed to be perfectly wild with joy at the capture of their dreaded enemy. Gen. Stevens sent him on board the Vixen.

There is a village on St. Helena Island called by the same name. One white man remained there—a true Unionist. We have been unable to find out his name. A man by the name of Coffin has several fine plantations on the island. He had to fly, as the planters around threatened to tar and feather, then hang him. He has a Northern lady for a wife, who fed the negroes as if they were human beings, not brutes. Most of the planters deal out to the negroes one peck of corn a week, which is all that is allowed them. If they raise a hog or chicken it must be kept up and fed from the negroes' allowance.

The Army at Hilton Head.

On the 24th (Sunday) the army was in camp at Hilton Head. It embraced soldiers from Michigan, Maine, New York, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Hampshire, and Pennsylvania. The early inspection was rapidly made. The weather was as balmy as a June day in the North; the water in the harbor was smooth and placid; manual labor was entirely suspended, and there was a quietness and decorum observed by the troops that impressed upon the spectator the fact that the men composing our army were educated to respect the Sabbath day. The Sunday morn-[illegible] employ every vessel [illegible] merchant [illegible] to carry troops without delay to every harbor, city and inlet on the Southern coast, and then the American people may rest assured that before the 1st of May next the Southern rebels will sue for peace."

Paris Island, eight miles from Hilton Head, had been visited. The plantation of Dr. Means was well stocked with cattle, grain, and vegetables. The negroes were holding a jubilee on the running off of their master.

It is supposed that there are fourteen thousand troops at Bluffton, under the command of General Drayton.

Hilton Head to be Fortified.

On the 23d, Gen. Sherman was fortifying his position. Negroes are hired to labor, and to work on the fortifications. The females wash and cook. The contrabands were rapidly coming in and placing themselves under Government protection. What is to be done with them all?

Matters at Beaufort, &c.

Beaufort is in utter confusion. Houses ransacked, and furniture and property destroyed. We hear that the rebels are deserting Tybee Island, and taking their big guns to Savannah. Gov. Brown says that the rebels now have nothing to do but fight. He des[illegible] airs of foreign recognition, and says that the fleet and troops on the coast cannot well be resisted. The Savannah Republican says that Port Royal Harbor is a magnificent one—and perfectly protected. Troops were being drafted for the protection of Savannah. The old men, women and children, had left.

An Expedition.

On the 25th, eight steamships were coaled at Hilton Head, and were ready to depart on an unknown expedition. Gen. Viele will command the military forces, but will be accompanied by Gen. Sherman. Some five regiments are on the steamers. We have no information of the sailing of the expedition.

The Stone Fleet.

This fleet sailed from New London on its way south in the last week of November.—They comprise a large lot of old whaling ships, laden with stone, and costing in all about fifty thousand dollars. They have been spoken on the way, making good progress, and in answer to a hail, said they were "the Southern Rat-hole Squadron." The following is a list of the vessels:

CITY.

COMMON COUNCIL.—Council met on Friday evening, January 10th. Present—Messrs. King, Hall, Burr, Harbaugh, Masters, Higgins and Hallock. Mr. Masters was elected President pro tem.

On motion, T. J. Holmes, Esq., was declared duly elected a member of the Board, and invited to take his seat.

The report of the City Treasurer for the quarter ending 31st December, 1861, was read and referred to the committee on finance.

The bill of S. Sherlock & Co., $6, was ordered paid; and the bills of A. E. Rhoades, $10, and G. Townsend, $1 50, were referred to financial committee.

The resolution of the 13th December, appropriating the sum of $750 for Hose, was taken from the table and read, and on motion, was laid upon the table.

The resolution of the 22d November appropriating the sum of $675 for the payment of H. Seymour, was taken up and read, and pending the question to adopt the same, the Board adjourned.

FORCED TO RETURN.—The Julia, which started on Saturday last for Astoria to receive the cargo of the bark Industry, now lying at that port, returned yesterday without reaching her destination. The ice closed the river at St. Helens during Saturday night. The steamer Cortes worked her way through with considerable difficulty before dark that day.

COUNTY COURT.—The January term of the County Court for this county will commence its session this morning.

Yesterday was the coldest day of the season—the mercury sunk to 12° above 0.

BOUND FOR SALMON.—Some sixty Californians arrived here in the Cortes, started overland for the Salmon river mines on Saturday [illegible].

Religious services were held yesterday in the Lecture Room of the new Baptist church.

Tracy & Co.'s Express left this morning for Oro Fino and Salmon river mines via the river trail—L. Day, messenger.

Service was held yesterday in the Lecture Room of the new Baptist Church. Regular services will be continued there hereafter.

The Free School will be opened to-day.

Many of our staid citizens and numbers of juveniles are enjoying the treat of skating on the pond north of the city. Occasionally there are most interesting performances upon the ice.

THE VIRGINIA CONVENTION.—This body have before them a report from one of their committees recommending that hereafter only members of the Legislature shall be elected by the restricted popular voters, and that all other officers, county as well as State, shall either be chosen by the Legislature, or appointed by new appointing powers.

The Washington Star, remarking on this, says:

"On the whole, this singularly rich report bears out to the letter our position taken at the commencement of the imbroglio, that secession was but a cloak for the purpose of stealing from the white masses of the South their distinctive American liberties."

There was "a bit of a row" at a New Year's Ball at the house of Mr. Jacob Kandle, in Clackamas county. It appears that there was an attempt to get up two balls on New Year's evening. The ladies, being all for the Union, would not go to the secession ball, so that ball dried up. But a gang of the party—uninvited—went to the Union Ball and got up a "muss." The music was stopped, and the Union men gave their enemy a thorough thrashing, when they left and the dancing was resumed. Mr. Kandle on the occasion of the interruption, did great service for the Union cause, by most effectually using the poker.

We have the Jacksonville Sentinel of Dec. 24, which gives account of great losses by the flood on the Applegate and Rogue rivers.—The Sentinel gives us the amount of [illegible] [illegible]. Rain commenced on the 9th of November, and during the month 7 37 inches of rain fell. From 1st to 15th, there were 6 [illegible] inches rain and 2 [illegible] of snow.

We have the first number of the State Republican, published at Eugene—H. Shaw & Co., editors and proprietors. It makes a good appearance and its articles have the right ring.

The Medical and Surgical Institute of DR. L. J. CZAPKAY is already secured in a position which places it, as well as its proprietor far above the assaults of envy and professional malice. In the schools of France, the highest prizes are often awarded to practitioners in this department of medical science, and they occupy, with others, an equally lofty position in the profession. Ricord is an illustrious example a shining light among the philosophical stars of his age in Europe, and Dr. Czapkay has fully equalled him in this country: as a proof of which the Philadelphia College of Medicine complimented him with a Diploma, and the honorary ad eundem degree. Selecting this as his field of operation, although qualified as a graduate of the University of Pesth, and late Chief Surgeon of the Hungarian Revolutionary army, for more extended labors Dr. L. J. Czapkay has bent his earnest attention to the cure of chronic and private diseases in which he has become so great an expert that he is now regarded as the LEADER in this branch of his profession through out the United States, and his portrait and biography are published as matter of interest to their readers in the most exclusive journals. The Doctor's offices are at his Medical and Surgical Institute on Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, nearly opposite the buildings of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, San Francisco. We ask particular attention of our readers to the sworn certificates of remarkable cures in another column of this paper. Persons not wishing to lose time in corresponding, please enclose $10 in their letters and they will get immediate attention to their cases. Address, L. J. CZAPKAY, M. Coughs.—The sudden changes of our climate are sources of PULMONARY, BRONCHIAL and ASTHMATIC AFFECTIONS. Experience having proved that simple remedies often act speedily and certainly when taken in the early stages of the disease recourse should at once be had to "Brown's Bronchial Troches," or Lozenges let the Cold, Cough, or Irritation of the Throat be ever so slight, as by this precaution a more serious attack may be effectually warded off. PUBLIC SPEAKERS and SINGERS will find them effectual for clearing and strengthening the voice. See advertisement.

CITY.

COMMON COUNCIL.—Council met on Friday evening, January [illegible]. Present—Messrs. King, Hatt, Ross, [illegible], Masters, Higgins, and [illegible]. Mr. Masters was elected President pro tem.

On motion, T. J. Holmes, Esq., was declared duly elected a member of the Board, and invited to take his seat.

The report of the City Treasurer for the quarter ending 31st December, 1861, was read, and referred to the committee on finance.

The bill of S. Sterling & Co., $[illegible], was ordered paid; and the bills of A. E. R[illegible], $10, and G. T. [illegible], $1 50, were referred to financial committee.

The resolution of the 12th December, appropriating the sum of $750 for Hose, was taken from the table and read, and its adoption was laid upon the table.

The resolution of the 22d November appropriating the sum of $[illegible] for the payment of H. Seymour, was taken up and read, and pending the question to adopt the same, the Board adjourned.

FORCED TO RETURN.—The Julia, which started on Saturday last for Astoria to relieve the cargo of the bark Industry, now lying at that port, returned yesterday without reaching her destination. The ice closed the river at St. Helens during Saturday night. The steamer Cortes worked her way through with considerable difficulty before dark that day.

COUNTY COURT.—The January term of the County Court for this county will commence its session this morning.

Yesterday was the coldest day of the season—the mercury sunk to 12° above 0.

BOUND FOR SALMON.—Some sixty Californians arrived here in the Cortes, started overland for the Salmon river mines on Saturday last.

Religious services were held yesterday in the Lecture Room of the new Baptist church.

Tracy & Co's. Express left this morning for Oro Fino and Salmon river mines via the river trail—L. Day, messenger.

Service was held yesterday in the Lecture Room of the new Baptist Church. Regular service will be continued there hereafter.

The Free School will be opened to-day.

Many of our staid citizens and numbers of juveniles are enjoying the treat of skating on the pond north of the city. Occasionally there are most interesting performances upon the ice.

THE VIRGINIA CONVENTION.—This body have before them a report from one of their committees recommending that hereafter only members of the Legislature shall be elected by the restricted popular voters, and that all other officers, county as well as State, shall either be chosen by the Legislature, or appointed by other appointing powers.

The Washington Star, remarking on this, says:

"On the whole, this singularly rich report bears out to the letter our [illegible] at the commencement of the Southern rebellion, that secession was but a cloak for the purpose of stealing from the white masses of the South their distinctive American liberties."

There was "a bit of a row" at a New Years' Ball at the house of Mr. Jacob Kandle, in Clackamas county. It appears that there was an attempt to get up two balls on New Years' evening. The [illegible] being all for the Union, would not [illegible] the secesh in that ball, so that ball [illegible]. ☞ Coughs.—The sudden changes of our climate are sources of PULMONARY, BRONCHIAL and ASTHMATIC AFFECTIONS. Experience having proved that simple remedies often act speedily and certainly when taken in the early stages of the disease, recourse should at once be had to "Brown's Bronchial Troches," or Lozenges, let the Cold, Cough, or Irritation of the Throat be ever so slight, as by this precaution a more serious attack may be effectually warded off. An Elephant's Egg.

At the last fair at Paris [illegible] there were of course assembled a troupe of gymnasts, jugglers, acrobats and a multitude of menageries, in one of which was an Asiatic elephant remarkable for the largeness of his ears. His owner called him Knouki II.

Among the acrobatic troupe was a maker of red balloons, recently so popular in England and America. He traveled with the show and seduced a couple of sous from the pockets of many a patron of it by selling him a balloon.

A countrymen stopped one day before the menagerie tent, and enticed by a painted representation of the elephant, paid his money to see him. Astonished at its size, he asked the balloon man as he went out

"Does that beast bring forth young or lay eggs?"

Without a moment's hesitation, the mountebank replied

"He lays eggs."

"I thought so."

"And if you wish one, to afford you the happiness of possessing under your own roof an individual of this species, for a franc I will guarantee that you shall carry home what no one else in the country possesses."

The greenhorn did not hesitate to offer his money, and the acrobat presented a red balloon

"Behold the egg I had the honor to promise you. It is one franc—and only for you because the Jardin des Plantes at Paris buys all my elephant's eggs at six francs a piece, for the Algerine expeditions, where they use all the elephants they can find for the war against India. I chose the lightest egg I could find for you, that you might not wait too long for it to hatch. Its mother having already sat upon it many days, it will suffice you to wrap it up in wool and lay it in a dry place, to obtain, without expense and without effort, the magnificent Asiatic product which it contains!"

"Astonishing! but how in regard to suckling him?"

"Easy enough. No consequence what quadruped nourishes him. Lacking a cow, a sow, or even a goat, you can bring him up yourself on turtle soup."

The countryman departed, charmed with his prize, and to keep it as safely as possible wrapped it in a blue cotton handkerchief which he had bought at the fair for his wife. But in spite of all the care of which the egg that bore Knouki II. was the object, it was written in the book of destiny that its proprietor should not see it hatched under his roof.

Some little distance from the village where our countryman resided runs a stream. He approached it for the purpose of imbibing the clear water. For the purpose of making a cup with his hands, he deposited his precious burden on the ground. He drank freely of the water, then rising, turned to his elephant's egg. He looked to the right and to the left but no egg! He looks above him, sees the egg rising higher—higher—and carrying with it his wife's handkerchief.

He believed that the elephant was about to be hatched, and it was not long after the egg was out of sight that he returned home crestfallen. His wife asked him where the handkerchief was he had promised to bring her. Then he narrated the entire adventure. The good woman opened her eyes and ears, and seeing her husband's grief not only at the loss of the elephant but of the handkerchief, exclaimed

"Content yourself, husband. I'll be content with my black handkerchief, and I'm glad to know that the poor baby hasn't gone off without swaddling clothes!"

Custom in infancy becomes a habit in old age.

A man's name passes around most freely when it has a handle to it.

Take the world easy, but be careful lest by the world you are easily taken.

We may judge of a man's character by what he loves—what pleases him.

—A witty philosopher says "Some men's mouths seem to be like the dikes of Holland—made to keep out water."

A witty man can make a jest, but it need a wise man to take one.

Remarkable Instance of Medical Relief

Below we publish the certificates [illegible] their former health and [illegible] gratitude [illegible] authenticated by a Notary Public [illegible] attention of all afflicted.

Certificate.—The undersigned [illegible] those who may be unfortunate enough to be [illegible] afflicted, where a permanent relief of their sufferings may be obtained, feels it his duty to thus publicly express his [illegible] sincere gratitude to Dr. L. J. Czapkay, for the permanent recovery of his health. Borne down by the distressing symptoms incident to the vicious practices of uncontrollable passions in youth, depressed in body and mind, unable to perform even the most trifling duty imposed upon the [illegible] [illegible] life, I sought the advice of many physicians, who [illegible] my disease as of trifling importance—but alas! after a few weeks, and in some instances months, of their treatment, I found, to my unutterable [illegible] that instead of relief my symptoms became [illegible] and being told by one that [illegible] to the brain, me the [illegible] I despaired of ever [illegible] my health [illegible] and as a last resort, and [illegible] called upon Dr. Czapkay, who, after [illegible] prescribed some medicine which almost [illegible] the dull pain and dizziness in my [illegible] by the result I resolved to place myself [illegible] and by a strict obedience to all [illegible] my head became clear and my [illegible] pain in my back and groins, the [illegible] nervous reaction of my whole [illegible] excitement, the pimples [illegible] distrust and want of confidence [illegible] study, and want of resolution, the frightful [illegible] and at times pleasurable dreams at night [illegible] voluntary discharges, have all disappeared, and in [illegible] months after having consulted the doctor I felt as if inspired by a new life—that life which but a short time ago I contemplated to end by my own hand. With the view to guard the unfortunate from falling into the snares of [illegible] quacks, I deem it my duty to [illegible] to the science and skill of Dr. Czapkay, and [illegible] all who may stand in need of medical [illegible] by my own experience, that once [illegible] care a radical and permanent cure will be effected.
